WE CARE

About our customers, partners and people within as well as outside our organization.

Containment at the highest level

Most of our customers in the pharmaceutical, chemical and food industry use powders and bulk materials which have to be 100 % protected from the environment for various reasons. Operator and product protection is a crucial factor during the manufacturing process.

If several production steps and interfaces have to be connected, Containment specialists are required. No matter which Containment level you are facing, HECHT cares for both your product and your employees. The HECHT Containment pyramid shows the classification of the raw materials in terms of OEL values and OEB levels as well as our technical solutions for reaching the required Containment.

WE CARE.
